

COLLABORATIVE WORKING

At AXIS, partnership working is at the heart of what we do. We work alongside other professionals to ensure children receive the right support at the right time. As the service has evolved, we have expanded our role in supporting colleagues across agencies, including key workers, social workers, police and Youth Justice Service staff. The feedback below highlights the impact of support provided by one of our case workers.

'I just wanted to share some feedback in relation to Naveen as he supported me yesterday with a joint visit with a young person that I have been finding difficult to engage with. As Naveen has worked with him previously, it was clear that they have built a really positive relationship and good rapport. The child engaged well during the visit by listening to his advice and he appears to have a lot of respect for Naveen. It was clear that Naveen has built trust with him over time and this helped the visit progress positively and complete meaningful work with the child. It was great to see the positive influence Naveen has on him and it's evident that the child looks up to Naveen as he is more receptive to discussions and guidance when it comes from him.'

AXIS BULLETIN

PROFESSIONAL CPD

AXIS have been providing CPD training to a number of professionals, including schools focusing on contextual safeguarding. Police station visits have been conducted to ensure neighbourhood policing teams are aware of our service, understand our areas of expertise, and can make best use of the support and intervention we provide.

This strengthens our multi-agency approach and facilitates timely early intervention, helping to prevent escalation and reduce demand on statutory services, including Social Care and the Youth Justice Service (YJS).
