

24/04/2026

Dear Colleague

We are delighted and proud to announce that the DFE have reaccredited our Initial Teacher Education provision in the Department of Education at Brunel University of London and we are re-launching our programmes from September 2026.

Our Education Department stands on more than two centuries of inspirational teacher-education heritage, making us one of the most historically rooted and forward-thinking education providers in the UK. From our origins in some of the oldest teacher-education colleges to our position today as a leader in innovative, research-driven Education programmes, we offer an education experience that is shaped by tradition and strengthened by expertise and ambition.

What Sets Us Apart?

- Research-led teaching and practice: Our academics shape contemporary educational thinking.
- Professionally grounded study: Our programmes connect theory to practice, focussing on professional learning as a process over time and empowering students to apply insights directly to professional contexts.
- A commitment to social justice: In our vibrant, culturally rich community we weave social justice, equity and inclusion into our work.
- A supportive, diverse community: Our staff and students come from across the globe which enriches classroom conversations and broadens perspectives.
- Career-enhancing outcomes: Our graduates advance into leadership roles across schools, universities, NGOs, local authorities, and other education-focused organisations.

We will be offering PGCE Primary and Secondary programmes with QTS. The Primary is a generalist programme, and the Secondary subjects are English, Mathematics, Physical Education, Science with Biology, Science with Chemistry, Science with Physics, and Science with Physics with Mathematics.

Please share this excellent news within your schools and networks. We'll be in touch again regarding opportunities to work in partnership with us and look forward to that collaboration.

We'd also like to invite you to an event that we are running on 1st July 2026 at 4.30pm at Brunel University of London entitled 'Powerful Education Partnerships for a Changing World'. Please save the date and we'll share more details very soon.

Yours sincerely

Anne Chappell
Head of Department
Department of Education