

"For some of our young people, whether they trust the police will actually be a matter of life and death. Makepeace was pivotal. We can't thank you enough" Fairbridge Project, The Prince's Trust

Makepeace is the award winning youth engagement strand of Specialist Firearms Command (SCO19).

Using real life case studies and actual footage from live incidents, the team delivers engaging and impactful presentations exploring youth violence. Officers who deliver the package are operational and therefore uniquely experienced as the first responders to armed incidents in London - from terrorism to gang violence. They create a dynamic and non-judgemental learning environment, addressing the issues young people have. No question is off limits.

Makepeace recognises the need for the police to build trust with young people and with its team of former youth workers- and trusted partners- is at the cutting edge of doing so.

The Makepeace team spoke to over 20,000 young Londoners in 2018.

"The guys that deliver Makepeace are amazing. Engaging, down to earth and really respectful. Really powerful sessions!" Fearless.org

"We had a Makepeace session- it's effective as well as informative and personal. This engagement team are unsung heroes!" Kamil (16), Newham

"Your confident yet non-confrontational & non-judging tone allowed them to feel safe and trust the information. By the end of the session it was clear their whole understanding of the motives of the police had changed" Fairbridge Programme Executive, The Prince's Trust

"Once again the presentation was outstanding and kept the students transfixed... I have never seen them sit so still and quiet" Schools Officer, Hillingdon
